

Art of Context: All Questions are True or False

1. Lower class people are more likely to commit crimes than upper class people.
2. When faced with natural disasters such as floods and earthquakes, people panic and social organization disintegrates.
3. A substantial proportion of the people on welfare could work if they really wanted to.
4. Regular churchgoers are less likely to be prejudiced against people of other races than those who do not attend church.
5. Most U.S. Roman Catholics oppose birth control.
6. The income gap between American male and female workers has narrowed significantly in recent years, quite nearly to the point of equality.
7. U.S. children are much more likely to live in single-parent households now than they were a century ago.
8. The Constitutional principle of the "Separation of Church and State" prevents religious leaders from using their professional positions to endorse or oppose political candidates.
9. Couples who live together before marriage usually report higher satisfaction with their marriages than couples who do not live together.
10. Born again Christians are less likely to divorce than are atheists or agnostics.